Management's discussion of fund performance

The fund's shares gained 21.29% on a net asset value (NAV) basis and 21.13% on a market price basis for the year ended May 31, 2025. These results compare with a 13.52% gain for the S&P 500 Index. What factors influenced results

U.S. equity markets rebounded from early 2025 volatility and delivered strong returns on the back of a late-stage rally in the technology sector. The financials and consumer discretionary sectors led the gains, supported by shifting interest rates and a pickup in consumer spending. Overall, during the fund's fiscal year the U.S. economy maintained steady growth, despite witnessing a contraction in the first quarter of 2025 amid rising tariff tensions. As inflation moderated, the Federal Reserve implemented three rate cuts in 2024 to stimulate the economy and improve consumer sentiment.

Overall, most sectors added to the fund's positive results, with communication services, consumer discretionary and information technology being particularly additive. Likewise, holdings in industrials also saw returns that surpassed the overall returns. Utilities and real estate shares were also positive, though below the portfolio's overall return.

In term of detractors, holdings in the energy and health care sectors posted negative returns during the period.

Changes in and disagreements with accountants

On July 3, 2025, PricewaterhouseCoopers LLP ("PwC") was dismissed and Deloitte & Touche LLP was appointed as the fund's independent registered public accounting firm for the fiscal year 2026 audit. The change in the fund's independent registered public accounting firm was approved by the fund's board of trustees, including a majority of the independent trustees, upon recommendation of the audit committee, as part of a broader effort to update board oversight and fund operations. At no point during the fund's fiscal years ended May 31, 2024 and May 31, 2025 and the subsequent interim period through July 14, 2025, were there any disagreements between management and PwC on any matter of accounting principles or practices, financial statement disclosure or auditing scope or procedure.
