Management's discussion of fund performance

The fund's Class T shares gained 0.20% for the year ended July 31, 2025. That result compares with a 0.00% return for the Bloomberg Municipal Bond Index.

What factors influenced results

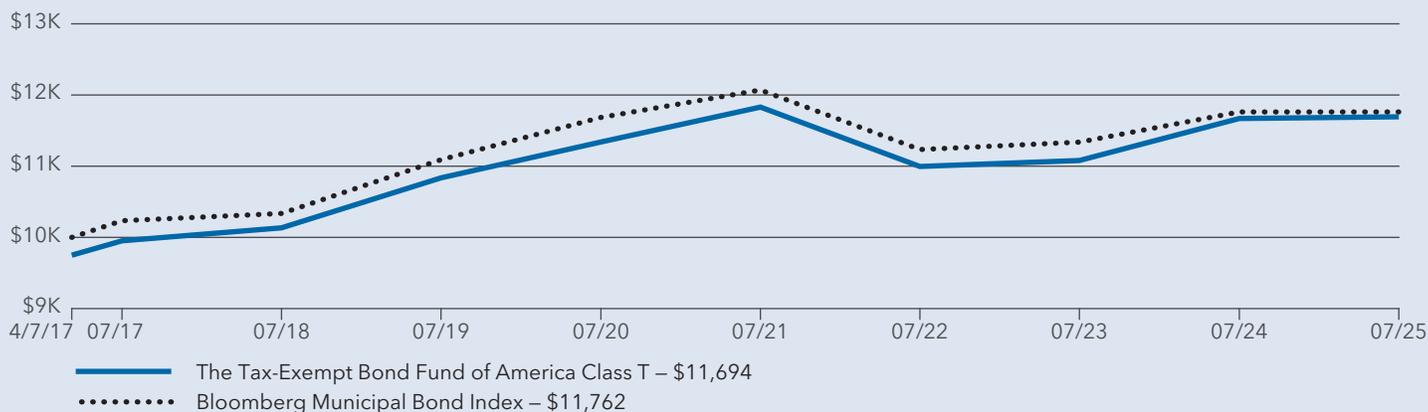

During the fund's fiscal year, municipal bond returns were essentially flat. Yields rose, ending the period near 15-year highs, which was in part driven by shifts in fiscal policy. The U.S. Federal Reserve reduced interest rates three times in 2024, prompting a decline in short-term yields as investors gravitated toward safer assets. Meanwhile, long-term yields moved higher, influenced by heightened market volatility and a strong wave of new municipal bond issuance. This dynamic led to a steepening of the municipal yield curve, with 10-year AAA yields outpacing two-year yields and enhancing the appeal of longer term maturities.

Within the fund, a larger portion of investments than the index in housing and corporate bonds were particularly additive to results relative to the benchmark. Likewise, holdings in health care and cash and money market aided returns. Also, duration positioning and the fund's exposure to derivatives further helped relative results.

Holdings in general obligation, special tax and transportation sectors had a relative negative impact on returns. Likewise, curve positioning weighed on results.

* Bond ratings, which typically range from AAA/Aaa (highest) to D (lowest), are assigned by credit rating agencies such as Standard & Poor's, Moody's and/or Fitch as an indication of an issuer's creditworthiness. In assigning a credit rating to a security, the fund looks specifically to the ratings assigned to the issuer of the security by Standard & Poor's, Moody's and/or Fitch. If agency ratings differ, the security will be considered to have received the highest of those ratings, consistent with the fund's investment policies. Securities in the "unrated" category (above) have not been rated by a rating agency; however, the investment adviser performs its own credit analysis and assigns comparable ratings that are used for compliance with the fund's investment policies.
