What factors influenced results

U.S. equities extended gains over the fund's fiscal year, rebounding from volatility in early 2025. Strong gains in the information technology, communication services and consumer discretionary sectors pushed the S&P 500 Index to record all-time highs. The U.S. economy grew steadily in the third quarter, supported by resilient consumer spending. Inflation rose modestly, reflecting lingering tariff effects. The Federal Reserve (Fed) reduced interest rates in September and October 2025, responding to signs of a weakening labor market.

Most sectors delivered positive returns for the fund, with information technology and industrials contributing significantly. Financials and utilities sectors also contributed meaningfully to the overall portfolio's return.

In contrast, materials were a significant detractor from overall results. Health care and consumer discretionary sectors also posted negative returns during the fiscal year.

Changes in and disagreements with accountants

On September 11, 2025, Deloitte & Touche LLP (“D&T”) was dismissed and PricewaterhouseCoopers LLP was appointed as the fund’s independent registered public accounting firm for the fiscal year ending October 31, 2026 audit. The change in the fund’s independent registered public accounting firm was approved by the fund’s board of trustees, including a majority of the independent trustees, upon recommendation of the audit committee, as part of a broader effort to update board oversight and fund operations. At no point during the fund’s fiscal years ended October 31, 2024 and October 31, 2025 and the subsequent interim period through December 11, 2025, were there any disagreements between management and D&T on any matter of accounting principles or practices, financial statement disclosure or auditing scope or procedure.
