What factors influenced results

International markets delivered robust returns over the fiscal year, buoyed by a weaker dollar and strong earnings across several key regions. Japanese equities surged, driven by solid capital investment and a fresh stimulus package, even as consumer demand remained subdued. European stocks rallied on the back of easing inflation and favorable monetary policies, with Germany's fiscal stimulus adding further momentum. Meanwhile, U.K. equities advanced steadily, supported by modest economic growth and stable inflation.

Overall, most sectors added to the fund's positive results, with industrials, financials and information technology being particularly additive. Consumer staples, communication services and utilities holdings also contributed positively to the overall portfolio return. Companies based in the U.K., France and Germany posted strong gains that surpassed the fund's overall returns.

Conversely, holdings in the health care and materials sectors detracted from the broader portfolio's return. Likewise, holdings in companies based in Denmark were the most notable detractor to absolute results.
