What factors influenced results

During the fund's fiscal year, U.S. economic growth remained solid, driven by strong consumer spending, despite uncertainties related to the presidential election, high interest rates and a slowing labor market. Japan and the eurozone saw modest growth while the UK economy contracted over the period. Among emerging economies, China faced stagnant consumption, a property market crisis and rising debt. Conversely, India showed resilience with strong growth and robust investment, though it struggled with inflation.

Within the fund, most sectors added positive returns to the portfolio. Holdings in the information technology and industrials sectors were particularly additive. Communications services, financials and consumer discretionary holdings also saw returns surpassing those of the overall portfolio. Geographically, shares of companies based in the U.S., Taiwan and Canada were especially additive.

In terms of detractors, investments in the materials and real estate sectors posted negative overall returns, as did companies based in Brazil, Australia and Korea.
