What factors influenced results

Global equity markets delivered strong gains in 2025, overcoming trade tensions and geopolitical volatility. U.S. equities advanced on strong large-cap technology growth, though lost momentum later in the year. Stocks in the U.K. and Japan benefited from accommodative monetary policies and fiscal stimulus measures. Emerging markets drove the rally, with strong returns from Korea, Taiwan and China. India remained relatively flat despite solid macroeconomic fundamentals.

Within the fund, all equity sectors delivered gains, with information technology, industrials and financials sectors being particularly additive. Communications services, materials and consumer staples holdings also saw returns surpassing those of the overall portfolio. U.S.-based companies, which represent over half of the portfolio, posted gains but lagged the fund's overall results. Companies based in the U.K. and Taiwan also made meaningful contributions.

Conversely, holdings in real estate and health care were a significant detractor from overall results, posting the lowest returns among all sectors. On a country basis, Denmark, Indonesia and Australia were among the most notable detractors for the fund.

How a hypothetical $10,000 investment has grown

Figures assume reinvestment of dividends and capital gains.
