Figures shown are past results for Class A shares and are not predictive of results in future periods. Current and future results may be lower or higher than those shown. Prices and returns will vary, so investors may lose money. Investing for short periods makes losses more likely. Unless otherwise indicated, results shown are at net asset value and do not reflect a sales charge. If the 2.50% maximum Class A sales charge had been deducted, results would have been lower. Focus on quality

The fund invests primarily in debt securities rated A-/A3 and above and will invest at least 80% of its assets in, or derive at least 80% of its income from, securities exempt from regular federal income tax and not subject to the alternative minimum tax (AMT). A portion of the interest may also be exempt from state income tax. Up to 20% of assets can be invested in bonds that are subject to the AMT.

Tax-exempt income

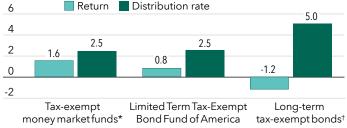

Over the past five years, the fund delivered lower returns than tax-exempt money market funds, but by 7/31/25, both offered the same income. It has, however, showed less volatility than long-term tax-exempt bonds.

Thorough analysis

The extensive proprietary research efforts of our portfolio managers, economists and duration analysts help determine the fund's most appropriate maturity and yield-curve position. The fund's analysts evaluate hundreds of individual securities to find investments for the fund.

Unlike bond funds, money market funds seek to maintain a net asset value of $1.00 per share. It is possible to lose money in bond funds, money market funds and municipal bond investments.

Volatility is calculated by Lipper using annualized standard deviation (based on monthly returns), a measure of how returns over time have varied from the mean; a lower number signifies lower volatility.

Sources for return and yield: Tax-exempt money market funds – Lipper Tax-Exempt Money Market Funds Average; long-term tax-exempt bonds – Bloomberg U.S. Municipal Long Bond (22+) Index, which is yield to worst. 12-month distribution rates, also known as yields, are calculated at net asset value. The Bloomberg U.S. Municipal Long Bond (22+) Index is a market capitalization-weighted index that tracks the performance of long-term, investment-grade municipal bonds.

Yield to worst is the lowest yield that can be realized by either calling or putting on one of the available call/put dates, or holding a bond to maturity.

Cash and equivalents includes short-term securities, accrued income and other assets less liabilities. It may also include investments in money market or similar funds managed by the investment adviser or its affiliates that are not offered to the public.

Quality summary and bond maturities are based on the fund's net assets as of 6/30/25. Bond maturities exclude cash. Portfolios are managed, so holdings will change. Certain fixed income and/or cash and equivalents holdings may be held through mutual funds managed by the investment adviser or its affiliates that are not offered to the public. Bond ratings, which typically range from AAA/Aaa (highest) to D (lowest), are assigned by credit rating agencies such as Standard & Poor's, Moody's and/or Fitch, as an indication of an issuer's creditworthiness. If agency ratings differ, a security will be considered to have received the highest of those ratings, consistent with applicable investment policies. Securities in the Unrated category have not been rated by any of the rating agencies referenced above; however, the investment adviser performs its own credit analysis and assigns comparable ratings that are used for compliance with applicable investment policies. Taxable equivalent rates are based on the top 40.8% 2025 federal tax rate, which includes the 3.8% Medicare tax. 12-month distribution rates (yields) are calculated by Lipper for Class A shares and do not reflect sales charges. The SEC yield reflects the rate at which the fund is earning income on its current portfolio of securities, while the distribution rate reflects the fund's past dividends paid to shareholders. Accordingly, the fund's SEC yield and distribution rate may differ.
